Outlook for 2025

The Company is eager to build on the success of its 2024/2025 winter drilling programs. In addition to identifying targets for the upcoming exploration program at the Thunder Bay North Project, the team is currently incorporating the positive results from last year's exploration and drilling into a new Preliminary Economic Assessment (PEA) expected to be released this fall. CEO Mike Garbutt comments, "Despite sustained industry headwinds, our cash position allows us to move ahead and prudently advance the project. The outlook for PGEs in the near to medium term is the most bullish it has been in the last 3 years, and we look forward to taking advantage of this momentum."
